Center for Improving Patient and Population Health

Research through a nursing lens, bringing together diverse healthcare fields, broad scientific expertise, and team-based approaches to solve our most vexing problems.

U-M School of Nursing
Elizabeth Tone Hosmer
Professor of Nursing
Christopher R. Friese, Ph.D.,
RN, AOCN®, FAAN, is the director of CIPPH.

CIPPH investigators work within and outside of healthcare settings. Health problems don’t stop at clinic doors, and neither do our solutions.

OUR WORK

CIPPH research studies transform outcomes for individual patients and populations. Our studies move from discovery to intervention development to implementation science.

CANCER
Improving symptom management
Improving chemotherapy outcomes
Improving the experience of patients and their caregivers

COMPLEX NEEDS
Improving care delivery and outcomes for:
1) Patients who seek care in multiple settings
2) Patients with critical illness
3) Patients with multiple chronic conditions

COMMUNITIES
Health equity and population health studies
Web-based interventions for rural Americans
Reducing workplace injuries and exposures for nurses
CIPPH members work towards the implementation of evidence-based interventions to deliver high-quality, high-value care.

Michelle Aebersold
Ph.D., RN, CHSE, FAAN
Clinical associate professor

Alex Fauer
Doctoral student

Robert Ploutz-Snyder
Ph.D., PStat®
Research professor

Debra Barton
Ph.D., RN, AOCN, FAAN
Mary Lou Willard
French Professor of Nursing

Marjorie McCullagh
Ph.D., RN, APHN-BC, COHN-S, FAAOHN, FAAN
Professor

Marylee Scherdt
Clinical research coordinator

Trevor Brooks
Research associate

Barbara Medvec
DNP, RN, NEA-BC
Clinical assistant professor

Ellen Lavoie Smith
Ph.D., APRN, AOCN®, FAAN
Associate professor

Deena Kelly Costa
Ph.D., RN
Assistant professor

Kari Mendelsohn-Victor
Clinical research project manager

Marita Titler
Ph.D., RN, FAAN
Rhetaugh G. Dumas
Endowed Professor

Regents of the University of Michigan
Michael J. Behm, Grand Blanc
Mark J. Bernstein, Ann Arbor
Shauna Ryder Diggs, Grosse Pointe

Denise Ilitch, Bingham Farms
Andrew Fischer Newman, Ann Arbor
Andrew C. Richner, Grosse Pointe Park

Ron Weiser, Ann Arbor
Katherine E. White, Ann Arbor
Mark S. Schlissel, ex officio