

2021 U-M SCHOOL OF NURSING GLOBAL SUMMER INSTITUTE

"Sexual Reproductive Health and Rights for All"

May 11-13, 2021

All sessions will run virtually from 8-10:30 a.m. EST

Sponsored by:

Day 1

May 11, 2021 • 8-8:45 a.m.

"Maternal Health Equity: Birthing the Future Together" with Leseliey Welch

Leseliey Welch is a public health leader with a business mind and a visionary heart, holding love as a guiding value, a way of being, an action and a politic. Welch is co-founder of Birth Detroit and Birth Center Equity, a mom and a tireless advocate for work that makes communities stronger, healthier and more free. She has nearly two decades of leadership experience in city, state and national health organizations, serving as interim executive director of Birthing Project USA, deputy director of public health for the City of Detroit, and consulting in the development of Michigan's first comprehensive LGBTQ health center.

Concurrent Sessions

9-10:30 a.m. Skills Session

1: "Career Cartography: A Strategic Approach to Planning Your Career" with Marie-Anne Rosenberg and Michelle Munro-Kramer

9-10:30 a.m. Skills Session 2:

"Information Empowerment: Information Seeking & Data Resources in the Sexual and Reproductive Health Research Context" with Gurpreet Rana

Day 2

May 12, 2021 • 8-8:45 a.m.

"Understanding Sexual and Reproductive Health Indicators" with Rob Stephenson

Rob Stephenson, Ph.D., is the Sylvia S. Hacker Collegiate Professor of Nursing and Sexual Health and chair of the Department of Systems, Populations and Leadership in the U-M School of Nursing. Trained as a demographer and epidemiologist, Stephenson's work focuses broadly on sexual and reproductive health, with specific focus on HIV prevention for sexual and gender minorities and women's sexual and reproductive health needs in resource-poor countries.

Concurrent Sessions

9-10:30 a.m. - Skills Session

1: "Data Quality for Sexual and Reproductive Health" with Rob Stephenson

9-10:30 a.m. - Skills Session

2: "Ethical Conduct of Research" with Erin Kahle

Day 3

May 13, 2021 • 8-8:45 a.m.

"Maternal and Newborn Health Policy and Advocacy" with Deborah Armbruster

Deborah Armbruster is a nurse-midwife with a master's in public health and a fellow of the American College of Nurse-Midwives with over 30 years of experience in safe motherhood and reproductive health programs in over 25 countries. Armbruster is currently with USAID as a senior maternal and newborn health advisor. At USAID, she has led work with the UN Commission on Life-Saving Commodities for Women and Children and is a member of the MCHN commodities team that supports work on commodities and supply chain.

Concurrent Sessions

9-10:30 a.m. - Skills

Session 1: "Using Media to Communicate Research and Program Findings" with Daniel Rivkin

9-10:30 a.m. - Skills Session

2: "Managing Data Quality: Before, During and After Study Conduct" with Akshay Sharma

May 13, 2021 • 10:30-12 p.m.

WHO Year of the Nurse and the Midwife Panel: "Reflections on the Year of the Nurse and Midwife: Challenges and Future Opportunities" with Sue Anne Bell, Deena Kelly Costa, Megan Eagle, Sheria Robinson-Lane and international guests.

Sue Anne Bell, Ph.D., FNP-BC, is an assistant professor at the University of Michigan School of Nursing, with expertise in disaster preparedness and response, community health and emergency care. Trained as a health services researcher, her work focuses on the health and well-being of aging populations in the context of a disaster. She is currently serving a three-year term on the U.S. Federal Emergency Management Agency's National Advisory Council. Her original training is as a family nurse practitioner, and she is clinically active in disaster response through the U.S. Department of Health and Human Service's National Disaster Medical System, with recent deployments to a COVID-19 cruise ship quarantine, Hurricane Maria and the 2018 Paradise, California, wildfire.

Megan Eagle, MSN, MPH, FNP-BC is a clinical instructor at the University of Michigan School of Nursing. Since 1995, she has been providing primary health care services to underserved populations. She has done research on the health care needs of uninsured adults in Washtenaw County, the adaptability of group prenatal care models to the family practice setting and on strategies for addressing maternal mortality in rural areas. She has served as a clinical preceptor to adult and family nurse practitioner students and also supervised clinical placements for students from the schools of Social Work, Pharmacy and Medicine. She is fluent in both English and Spanish.

Deena Kelly Costa, Ph.D., RN, FAAN is an assistant professor at the University of Michigan School of Nursing and co-director of the National Clinician Scholars Program. She received both her master's and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. A trained health services researcher with clinical expertise in adult critical care nursing, Costa's work has been published in leading journals such as JAMA, American Journal of Respiratory and Critical Care Medicine and Chest. Given her expertise, Costa advised Governor Gretchen Whitmer's office on staffing and scope of practice regulations that informed Executive Order 2020-30 during the spring surge of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Sheria G. Robinson-Lane, Ph.D., MSN, MHA, RN is an assistant professor at the University of Michigan School of Nursing. Robinson-Lane's work aims to reduce health disparities and improve health equity for diverse older adults and family caregivers managing pain and chronic illnesses such as Alzheimer's disease. Her current work is focused on improving the ability of Black, Latino and other diverse older adults to successfully age in place through culturally responsive and community-engaged care practices. Robinson-Lane completed her Ph.D. at Wayne State University and a postdoctoral fellowship in advanced rehabilitation research training at the University of Michigan Medical School.